

Learning to be a Peacemaker

If you are aged 18-30 and passionate about global change and Muslims' contribution to it, then the Learning to be a Peacemaker programme is for you!

Unique 11-day annual double programme:

- Learning to be a Peacemaker - 6-day training course for young European Muslims on Islamic approaches to peacemaking with Imam Ajmal Masroor followed by
- Tools for Changemakers – Rebuilding Trust in Europe - 4-day part conference/part training courses on trust-building developed in different parts of Europe.

At the mountainside Caux Conference and Seminar Centre in Switzerland

Full and Part Scholarships available!

7-18 July 2019

Peace and justice are the two most sacred principles which underpin every aspect of a Muslim's life. Therefore, becoming a peacemaker is the most important role a Muslim can play. Learning about peace and justice is the first step towards this goal.

This programme believes that learning to be a peacemaker is key to developing a confident European Muslim identity and contributing towards global change.

Imam Ajmal Masroor

The programme offers:

- Knowledge – factual information about the peacemaking culture in Islam and the wider context
- Dialogue – between young European Muslims and their peers of other beliefs

- Networking – between young people across Europe to take initiatives for peacemaking and trustbuilding across the divides.

