

PROGRAMME OVERVIEW
FRIDAY 17 July 11:00 – 13:00 CEST Let's talk! Exploring dialogue principles and learning from experienced practitioners	SATURDAY 18 July 10:00 – 12:00 CEST Let's listen! Experiencing a dialogue	SUNDAY 19 July 10:00 – 12:00 CEST Let's reflect! Taking inspiration from stories of impact, sense making and looking ahead
Word of welcome Getting to know each other What is dialogue? <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Simon Keyes, Professor of Reconciliation and Peacebuilding at the University of Winchester, United Kingdom Conversations with invited practitioners: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Dr. Iryna Brunova-Kalishetska, Researcher, trainer, dialogue facilitator, Ukraine • Mohammed Abu-Nimer, Professor, School Of International Service, American University & Senior Adviser, KAICIID, Austria Discussion groups Wrapping up the session	Word of welcome The role of dialogue in the #BlackLivesMatter context with: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Ebony Walden, Trainer, Facilitator, Urban planner, Community facilitator, Ebony Walden Consulting, USA • Matthew Freeman, Trainer, Facilitator, Dialectix Consulting, USA Moderator: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Rob Corcoran, Training Consultant, Initiatives of Change International, USA Experiencing a dialogue Discussion groups - unpacking the learning and the experience Wrapping up the session	Word of welcome Stories of impact: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Angela Starovoytova, Dialogue facilitator, Trainer in effective communication at the Network of dialogue facilitators, Ukraine • Janine Farah, Masters student in Peace and Conflict Studies, Australia Small groups exercise/ application Wrapping up the session

Tools for Changemakers – Shaping the future together through dialogue

Online event

17 – 19 July, 2020

17 July - Let's talk! - Exploring dialogue principles and learning from experienced practitioners

For the first day we have invited a few experts to talk about their dialogue approaches, with examples from the fieldwork, and share their vision for how such practices can play a significant role in responding to the world's future challenges. Participants, in small discussion groups, will have the opportunity to share personal experiences and practices of dialogue and together will look for inspiration and vision for a more cohesive world.

18 July - Let's listen! - Experiencing a dialogue

The second day will provide our participants with the opportunity to hear from three dialogue practitioners from the United States about the role of dialogue in the #BlackLivesMatter context, and then experience an online facilitated dialogue, followed by discussion groups where they will be able to share and reflect on their learning.

19 July - Let's reflect! - Taking inspiration from stories of impact, sense making and looking ahead

On the final day we will bring forward two inspirational stories of impact through dialogue and give our participants further opportunities to explore in small groups the next steps they might consider in addressing local or global issues.

We trust our participants will find the Tools for Changemakers experience inspiring and will strengthen their confidence in dialogue as a tool for addressing the challenges faced by their communities.